

Please insert the following Abstract as a separate page
after the claims.

ABSTRACT

A device for actuating the doors of vehicles, in particular of an aircraft. The device comprises a drive element, which cooperates with a door lock. A lifting motion of a shaft element and a subsequent rotational motion of a follower element are carried out in an actuation device by a drive element.